

Ready for Campus Review: Instructions for Applicants

If you have indicated on the Country & Award Selection page of the application that you are applying through an institution, the Ready for Campus Review section will appear above Review & Submit on the left of your screen.

When you feel that your application is ready to be reviewed by the campus committee (no later than 10am CDT on Wednesday, September 9), mark the checkbox on the Ready for Campus Review page and click Save and Continue.

Ready for Campus Review

You can indicate that your application is ready for campus review below. This will temporarily lock your application and indicate to your institution's Fulbright Program Adviser \(FPA\) that your materials are ready to undergo the campus review process. Please contact your Fulbright Program Adviser to confirm your institution's campus deadline and campus review process. After the campus review process, your Fulbright Program Adviser will unlock your application to return it to you for revisions. You will be able to unlock your application, if necessary, by toggling the field below.

Checking off "Ready for Campus Review" does NOT submit your application. After your campus review has completed, it is your responsibility to submit your application prior to the National Deadline: Tuesday, October 8, 2024 at 5pm ET. Fulbright Program Advisers cannot submit an application on your behalf. No late applications will be accepted after the national deadline.

Use the Ready for Campus Review, NOT the Submit feature, for your institutions' campus deadline. Ready for Campus Review allows for additional edits and updates to your application. Submitted applications are final and your FPA will not be able to unlock or return a submitted application.

Important: After your campus review has completed, it is your responsibility to submit your application prior to the National Deadline: Tuesday, October 8, 2024 at 5pm ET. Fulbright Program Advisers cannot submit an application on your behalf. No late applications will be accepted after the national deadline.

Once the campus review process is completed, your Fulbright Program Adviser will unlock your application for you to make revisions and for you to submit the application prior to the National Deadline.

Once you mark your application as Ready for Campus Review, most of the application sections will disappear. This locks the application so that you and your campus committee can see and discuss the same materials during the campus review process.

You are expected to preview the Application Proof prior to submitting the application. It is important to review formatting to ensure that text responses are not cut off and uploaded documents display correctly. We recommend saving a copy of your Application Proof for your records.

Your application must be electronically submitted at the time of the national deadline in order to be considered. All submissions are final.

Save for Later

During this time, you will still be able to access the Recommenders & Language Evaluators section to add or send reminders to your recommenders and evaluators. Likewise, they will continue to be able to access their forms and will be able to submit completed evaluations and recommendations while your application is in "Ready for Campus Review" status. You can also mark & unmark your application as ready at any time.

No later than Friday, September 11, I will unmark your application. All the application sections will reappear, and you can then continue to make revisions before submitting your application prior to the national deadline. As noted above, you may also unlock your own application at any time by unchecking the 'Ready for Campus Review' box and clicking 'Save and Continue'.
